You are invited!

“

The Incubator brings together a small group of leadership development professionals from some of the world's most innovative companies to collaborate with their peers and design a scalable program with their leaders in mind.

What makes it different

We incorporate vertical development, our impactful B3 methodology, and design thinking in a start-up incubation environment to help you jumpstart your design in two days focusing on empowering your leaders to:

- Shift the way they think to better navigate complex challenges
- Embrace new perspectives and cultivate a culture of development
- Experiment with action-oriented learning based around the leader's context outside of the classroom

Who this is for

This is an invite-only event for people planning, designing, or launching a leadership development program for their organization or clients. You'll be joining our alumni design community of cutting-edge practitioners from organizations including:

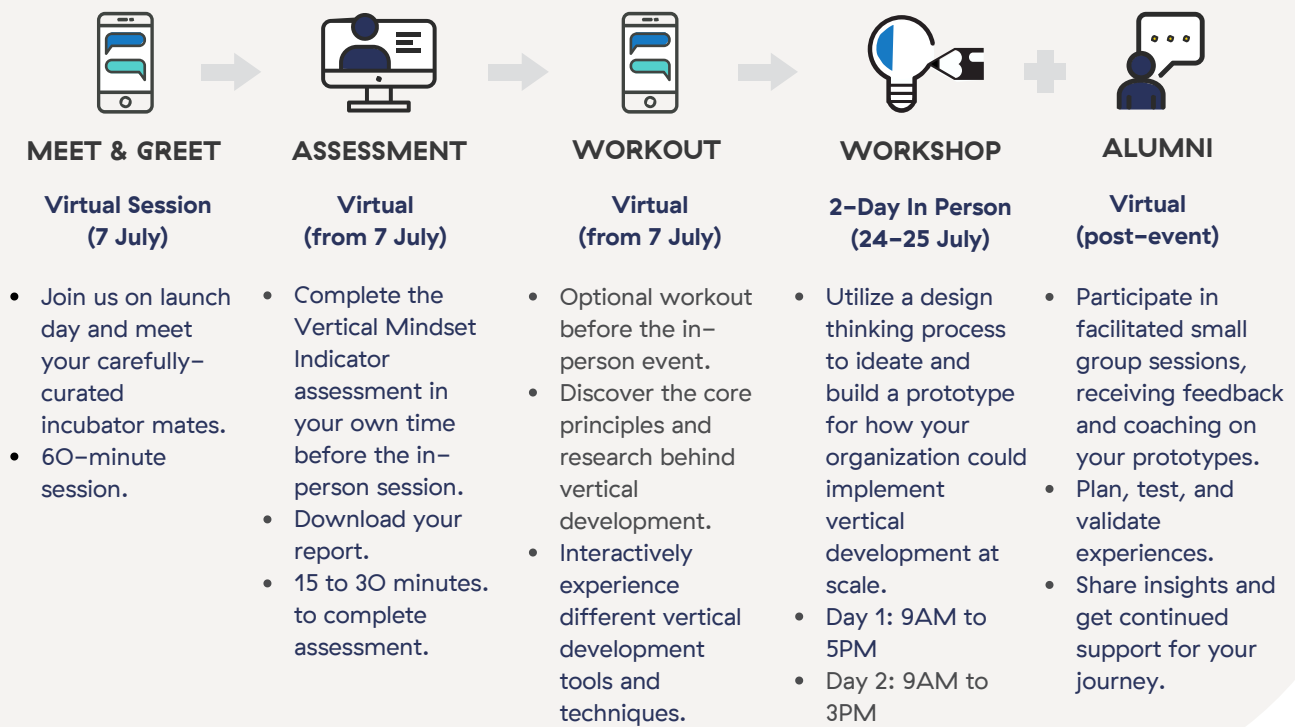

What you'll get from the experience

- Create a new scalable leadership development program for your organization.
- Become part of a design community of conscious leadership practitioners.
- Add new tools, assessments, and methods to your leadership development toolkit.
- Complete your Vertical Mindset Indicator (VMI) Assessment, gain insight into your current mindset range, and incorporate it into your leadership development program.
- Learn how other innovative companies are developing their leaders and using technology to scale development.

What to expect: The Incubator experience

Shift the way your leaders think with vertical design principles

- Heat Experiences – Disrupt familiar patterns of thinking, doing, and relating to drive you out of your comfort zone and experiment with new mindsets and experiences.
- Colliding Perspectives – Open up different ways of seeing and understanding by engaging with the ideas, experiences, and perspectives of others.
- Reflection – Create space for mindful attention to what works, try iterations for improvement, and affirm your purpose / why at the center of it all.
